FORUM ON MONTANA'S CULTURAL HERITAGE
SET FOR TUESDAY AT UNIVERSITY

MISSOULA--

A film and discussion concerning Montana's history and cultural heritage will be presented Tuesday, May 4, at the University of Montana in Missoula.

Tuesday's presentation, to be at 7:30 p.m. in room 11 of the UM Liberal Arts Building, is open to the public without charge.

The program is one in a series of programs sponsored by the Montana Committee for the Humanities, a state agency based at UM, and the National Endowment for the Humanities. The programs will be held in eight areas of the state under the Bicentennial theme, "Past, Present and Future of Montana."

The film to be shown at Tuesday's program in Missoula is entitled "Remember." The movie explores the influence of various ethnic groups on Montana's development. It was produced by students at Montana State University, Bozeman, and directed by David J. Trees, Fishtail, a MSU senior. The film was telecast Sunday, April 4, by the Montana Television Network.

Dr. O.W. Rolfe, associate professor of foreign languages at UM, will moderate the 12-member panel discussion entitled "Foreign Ethnic Influences in Montana: Promoted? Tolerated? Avoided? Repressed?"

Members of the panel include UM faculty members: Dr. Anthony F. Beltramo, assistant professor of foreign languages; Dr. Harry W. Fritz, associate professor of history; Dr. Robert W. Funk, professor and chairman of religious studies; and Dr. Raymond L. Gold, professor of sociology.

Also participating on the panel will be a number of Missoula area residents--
Ivan Lillebo, Armand J. Lucier, Walter Pippo, William H. Snyder, Wilfred V. Thibodeau, Dr. Fred Thomson, Robert D. Watt and George M. Zellick.

Dr. Rex C. Dahl, assistant professor of foreign languages at MSU, is project director of the statewide forums. Mrs. Joan Stovall, associate professor of foreign languages at MSU, is assistant project director.
